Application No.

Continuation of 3. NOTE: Because the claimed subject matter is deemed to fail to patentably distinguish over the state of the art as represented by the cited references. Applicant asserts on page 11, first paragraph that Brewer teaches no more than the treatment of ED in men suffering from PD but Brewer did not attempt to treat any neuropathies, nor does the cited reference suggest that the therapy could treat a neuropathy. This is not persuasive because Parkinson's disease is well known in the art to be included as one neuropathy as evidenced by Rueger et al. (U.S.Patent Application Publication Pub. No. US 2003/0104996A1) on page 1, paragraph [0006]. Therefore Brewer et al's teaching that sildenafil citrate therapy using 50 to 100mg given to patients with Parkinson's diseases encompasses Applicant's claimed invention. It is noted that U.S.Patent Pub. No. US 2003/0104996A1 was provided as an extrinsic evidence to show that Parkinson's disease is a degenerative disease also exemplified as a neuropathy.
